California School Employees Association

Site Rep Program

The site representative is the CSEA representative at the worksite. Site representatives make the first contact with new employees for CSEA, and disseminate information to current site employees. They are a critical link in communication between the rank and file, the site representative coordinator, stewards, and the chapter executive board.

Become a Certified Union Steward!

The CSEA Board of Directors has created a new and exciting comprehensive Union Steward Certification Program – Levels 1 through 4 (previously referred to as Job Steward training).

"Let me guess. Is this another one of your group grievances?"

The union steward is the backbone of every functioning chapter and is a vital representational link between bargaining unit employees, their union, and site-level management. The union steward's primary role is to enforce the CSEA contract at informal and formal levels of the grievance procedure.

Union Steward-Level 1
